XI. Roundtable Discussion – Trials, Tribulations and Successes of Planning Efforts within the COVID-19 Crisis

Delegates and Alternates were asked to share their experiences in trying to carry-on various planning effects during the COVID-19 crisis.

There was a discussion on changing zoning for outdoor dining to allow for more flexibility. Sheila reported Pittsfield is looking into larger areas for outdoor dining and curbside pickup by using public space. Jim Sullivan mentioned changing bylaws and then changing them back could be an issue and maybe we should wait to see what happens with the virus. Roger pointed out the zoning changes could be temporary. Malcolm added that he felt zoning changes could help restaurants and businesses cope with social distancing requirements. Kyle commented that changing bylaws will help businesses get through the challenges and get businesses more revenue. Pedro talked about short term policies to allow streets to be shut down to vehicles to create open markets and easier access for customers. John added if communities can find ways to change zoning to allow people to visit business while maintaining social distancing will help consumer confidence. John stressed the importance that people need to be confident to go out and support local businesses.

XII. Executive Director's Report

A. BRPC COVID-19 Update

The BRPC office is still officially closed. Based on Governor Baker's Phase 1 announcement today, it appears the soonest we may be able to get back into the office in a limited manner is next week. We are working on preparing a required reopening plan. It is likely there will not be any in-person meetings in the office for at least several weeks. Staff activities have focused on the public health response and, more recently, recovery. Staff are preparing grant applications for technical assistance to small businesses as well as business support funding for micro-businesses for low to moderate income business owners.

B. Transportation and Climate Initiative

The schedule for the Transportation and Climate Initiative has been pushed back in response to the impacts of the COVID-19 pandemic. Under the revised schedule, a final Memorandum of Understanding is now expected in the fall of 2020, at which point, each jurisdiction (state) will decide whether to sign the MOU and participate in the regional program. The timing for signing the MOU has shifted to the fall but work on the program details continues and engagement with stakeholders will continue to inform the process. Over the next several months, TCI jurisdictions together will be working on:

- Identifying investments, initiatives, and complementary policies that will further reduce pollution, benefit public health, create jobs, and accelerate economic recovery in the wake of the pandemic.
- Economic and public health modeling to analyze how emissions reductions and investments in low-carbon transportation infrastructure will benefit people, businesses, and communities, particularly communities already bearing disproportionate impacts from pollution and lack of access to economic opportunities.

C. CPTC Online Training

CPTC (Citizen Planner Training Collaborative) <https://masscptc.org/training/online/online-index.html#prerecorded> is offering online training. Pre-recorded trainings can be viewed at any time and provide links to printed information that can be bookmarked.

D. MassWorks Applications

The RFR and application for the MassWorks 2020 Round is being finalized. It is expected it will be advertised soon, within a couple of weeks. Applications will be due by the end of August with decisions due later in the Fall.

E. Housing Choice

The decisions about Housing Choice designations are expected in June, as is the application round for the Small-Town Grant Program.

F. Summer Schedule

Full Commission meetings are normally every 2 months and regularly scheduled from September through May. However, in the summer months a more flexible schedule is followed. BRPC's bylaws require us to hold a meeting to vote in new officers before August 31st. Please be on the lookout for the date of the summer meeting.
